Sincerity of Declarations of Friendship Doubted.

Conservatives Disturbing Public 'Order at Matanzas.

ferrible Suffering Among the Reconcentrados - Many Dying of Disease and Starvation - Insurgent Bands Very Active.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] HAVANA (via Key West, Fla.,) Nov. 21.-La Lucha in a recently published editorial expresses doubt as to the sin-cerity of the friendship for Spain pro-fessed by the American government and says: "If the American government canno prevent the sailing from the ports of that country of expeditions in aid of the insurgents, and does not respond in other ways to Spain's efforts to come to favorable terms, it is useless for Spain to maintain friendly relations with America."

Reports from Matanzas say that the Conservatives having become enraged at the change in the government's pol icy are disturbing public order. Ex-Mayor Crespo initiated the disorderly conduct by publicly giving offense to Señor Armas, the new civil governo senor Armas, the new civil, governor of the province. The Chief of Police followed Crespo's lead by endeavoring to prevent aid being given to the suffering reconcentradoes by newspaper cor-respondents and others. Of the recon-centradoes in Matanzas, numbering more than fifty thousand, seventy-nine died in two days, thirty-seven from died in two days, thirty-seven from hunger. Yesterday seventeen deaths were reported, a large proportion of which were the result of starvation. In Jaruco about to per cent, of the deaths are caused by starvation and the same is true of many other towns, owing to the lack of proper clothing and blankers, the situation of the reand blankets, the situation of the re concentradoes is becoming worse as the winter season approaches, despite the efforts made to relieve them.

Horrible episodes are of daily occur rence among the reconcentradoes. After lying for three days on the sidewalk in front of a house in Matanzas a poor negro woman, who was suffering terribly and was unable to move, was carried away by a flood caused by a great downfall of rain. A short time great downfall of rain. A short time afterward her dead body was found a few blocks away and at last reports was still lying in the gutter.

Marshal Blanco has appointed thirty-four new 'employés at the custom-house. Of these five are native Cubans and the remainder Spaniards and Reformists. The Autonomists are greatly disgusted by their appointments. Sixty persons employed about the docks and 500 others in various parts of the island have joined the revolutionists, and a number of prisoners at Guines, who were pardoned under the proclamation, have returned to the insurgents. Smallpox is raging in the neighborhood of the insurgent headquarters in Pinar del Rio, and there are in the hospitals and the hills 1700 persons suffering from the disease.

It is stated by a prominent citizen of Pinor del Rio, according to an official report, that there are 1300 armed insurgents in the province, including the bands which have recently entered the province under Maria Rodriguez and other leaders.

The financial situation of the military administration is bad. The soldiers have not been paid in eight months. There is a scarcity in the meat supply for the hospitals, and in many towns no meat has been obtainable for many days.

Gen. Losada, sub-inspector of the Health Department, said recently to the correspondent of El Imparcial, in Madrid, that there were actually 35,000 soldiers in the hospitals in Cuba, and that about 15,000 of this number were, not suffering from any disease, but simply from need of nourishment. Rio Sieco, province of Havana, reports that a fresh band of insurgents, well armed, has appeared in that vicinity.

The police recently visited the house of George W. Hyatt, chief of the relief department of the United States Consulate, at 12 o'clock at night to make inquiries as to the destination of a sulate, at 12 o'clock at night to make inquiries as to the destination of a quantity of food which had been taker into the house during the day. The female inmates became frightened and refused to open the door, and insisted upon being informed of the object of the officers' visit. The police finally retired, upon learning that the inmates were Americans.

A dispatch from Madrid says Señor Giberga. Deputy to the Spanish Cortez and leader of the new Autonomists, is on his way to Cuba, where he will enter the autonomist party upon condition that Señors Montero, Fernandez de Castro, Cuelo and Zayes leave the board of directors, it being asserted that they are too pronouncedly Spanish to succeed in inducing the Insure.

Editor Canaljas Advises the Cubana to Accept Autonomy.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] of Madrid, one of the leaders of the Spanish Liberals and former Cabinet Minister, immediately after his arrival here to study the conditions of the island, visited the authorities. Later he was entertained at a banquet and has already had many conferences with leading representatives of the various parties. He has advised the Conservatives to acknowledge the good faith of the government's intentions and dec-larations with reference to the new regime.

Last night Sefor Canaljas exchanged régimé.

Last night Señor Canaljas exchanged views with the Autonomists. The conference was well attended and the proceedings were of the most cordial character. Señor Galvez, the president of the Autonomist party, traced the history of the party and the persecution it had suffered for its loyalty to its principles. He said he had never made himself a partisan of Gen. Weyler's political or military policy. He had confined himself to indicating his gratitude when Gen. Weyler released the imprisoned Autonomists. In his opinion signs of favorable reaction were now evident, and he believed that the announcement of the régime would lead to a thorough reorganization of the Autonomist party as soon as sufficient guarantees were offered for the establishment of the new regime. The Autonomist party would then demonstrate its importance and influence.

Señor Galvez also indicated that the conduct of Capt. Gen. Blanco thus far met with his full approbation.

Sefor Galvez and Señor Canaljas agree in thinking that the serious economical problem confronting the country will be best solved by autonomy, but the study of this question is rendered additionally difficult by the want of statistics and data necessary to prepare a definite scheme of solution.

El Pals, the autonomist organ, says to prepare a definite scheme of solution.

El Pais, the autonomist organ, says today that the evident conviction of Señor Canaljas is not inconsistent with the promises of Señor Sagasta. It considers the action of Señor Canaljas in coming here as entirely in order, applauds his patriotism and intellectual gits, and expresses the hope that he will soon visit other parts of the island. This he expects to do, beginning with the province of Pinar del Rio. He will accompany the Spanish columns in their operations.

Attitude of Uncle Sam.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.— Marquis Apeztuguia, leader of the Conservative party in Cuba, arrived on the French liner La Champagne from Havre today.

The Marquis said he had been in Spain for the last year, and that he was going to leave for Havana on Wednesday. He spoke very guardedly of the Cuban war and Spain's attitude of the Cuban war and Spain's attitude toward America.

"It seems," he said, "as though the attitude of the United States is hostile to Spain, though it is not perhaps meant to be so.'

The Marquis repeated the official ca-bled statement that the Liberal party in Spain has been much oppos Weyler's methods of warfare in Cuba. Weyler's methods of warfare in Cuba, although the Conservatives were not infinical to Weyler. He also said that from recent accounts in the public press he thought affairs in Cuba were moving satisfactorily for Spain.

Whether the Marquis is bound for Cuba with a specific government mission, he did not say. It is hardly probable, as the party of which he is the head is by no means the supporter of the Sagasta ministry.

Canal but is Mum on the Sub-ject of San Pedro Harbor in His Annual Report.

JASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.-In his first annual report Secretary Alger transmits without reduction the esti-mates of the chief of engineers for the next fiscal year, amounting to $48,728,-160, more than double the appropria-tions for the current year. He says these are largely in excess of what they should be at a time when the demands on the treasury are as great as now. Therefore he recommends a large re-

In justice to the chief of engineers Secretary Alger says that these esti-mates were made by his own direction, that the facts might be placed before Congress, showing what the expendi-tures would be, were all the require-ments of the river and harbor laws complied with, and he cites the fact that the outstanding continuous con-tracts for river and harbor work will require an expenditure of over $17,000,-000 for the next fiscal year.

The Secretary indorses the project for the construction of a ship canal connecting lakes Union and Washington with Puget Sound, but states that active operations cannot be menced for some time, as the right-ofvay has not yet been acquired.

Secretary Alger makes many recom-mendations for the betterment of the administration of the War Department, based on the conclusions of his subor-dinate officers. He asks favorable condinate officers. He asks favorable con-sideration for the proposition to add two regiments to the artillery branch, pointing to the valuable fortifications now being erected which, he says, should not be manned by a corporal's proper system of criminal jurisdiction over military reservations, and of a hall of records for the storage of official papers.

The estimate for army transportation is increased by $100,000, to provide means for moving heavy ordnance. To provide for the new posts needed on the sea coast an estimate of $2,000,000 is submitted.

Until recently the hospital at Hot Springs was open only to soldiers of the regular army, but Secretary Alger has just amended the regulations so as to authorize the admission of suitable cases among the veterans of the late war.

In the opinion of the Secretary an increase in the engineer cosps in officers and in enlisted men is indispensable. He points to the immediate value and extent of the work now in the hands of this corps, and contends that it could be better supervised and improved in quantity and quality by the assignment of more officers, which is now impossible.

Secretary Alger especially commends for patriotism, generosity and zeal, Col. Buffington and Capt. Crosler, the inventors of the disappearing gun carriage, who generously donated the invention to the government.

The report closes with the renewal of the recommendation that provision be made for the erection in Washington of Gen. Grant's monument.

The report closes with the renewal of the recommendation that provisions for the current year. He says of Alaska that as many as 100,000 people will be gathered there next year and a military force should be sent to the Territory and large emergency powers should be granted to the President to repress lawlessness. Probably the creation of additional military reservations like that of St. Michaels may be the best means to meet the problem. A boat for the patrol of the Yukon is also asked for as well as increased pay for the entilisted men serving in Alaska.

Secretary Alger recommends the revival of the grade of lieutenant-general, saying that all the great nations give their officers much higher rank than does the United States.

He indorses the recommendation of the superintendent of the military academy that the number of students at West Point be increased, by allowing each Senator to nominate a cadet. As an alternative he suggests that the President be authorized to appoint ten cadets-at-large each year.

Favorable comment is made upon the work of the military colleges of the tails of army officers only to such colleges as have at least 150 pupils actually present.

NOGALES (Ariz.,) Nov. 21.—A serious and fatal wreck occurred last night on and fatal wreck occurred last night on the Sonora Railroad, forty miles north of Cumaral Station and thirty-three miles south of Nogales. Freight train No. 4, due in Nogales about 7 o'clock, arrived at Agua Zarca, twelve miles from Nogales, loaded with oranges. Here it was necessary to set out of the train, on account of a steep grade, three cars of oranges which were set on a side track and cut loose from the engine. The brakes would not hold and the cars started down the steep grade to meet passenger train No. 2, due at Nogales at 7:30 p.m.

For twenty-one miles the runaway train dashed along and crashed into the passenger train. Engineer George Barker of the passenger train saw his danger, but too late. He had only time to apply the air when the crash

The engine of the passenger train was completely demolished and thrown into the ditch, with the body of the engineer under the wreck. One refrigerator car of oranges is a total wreck.

The fireman was found on top of one of the driving wheels of the engine, badly burned and bruised and will probably die.

Express Messenger J. D. Milton was thrown the full length of his car and badly, though not seriously, bruised, Engineer Linder of the freight chased the runaway cars for seven miles, but could not catch them. He came into Nogales and reported. A special train was immediately made up and sent out in charge of Trainmaster E. J. Gibson and Roadmaster George Montague, and with Drs. Wells and Chenowith on board. The train returned this morning at 5:30 o'clock, bringing in the body of the engineer and the delayed pas-sengers. They embrace a number of features entirely different from those of other experts, and they have been carefully studied by the commission during several recent sessions. Col. He thinks that these notes should be issued in denominations of $1, $2 and $5, in order that the people may have confidence in the money in current circulation. ceptances outstanding at any one time to a certain proportion of its capital. and surplus.

Fourth—To prescribe that no such banks be licensed to accept such drafts without taking from the drawers adequate security therefor to the full amount of such contemplated acceptances, which security may be in the form of discounted paper; also, without having deposited with the clearing-house security to the amount of the circulating drafts applied for, the sufficiency of such security, both in amount and character, to be certified in each instance separately to the Comptroller of the Currency by the proper authorities of the clearing-house, and approved by the local bank examiner. Securities so deposited to be released only upon presentation to the clearing-house of cancelled drafts, which drafts are to be delivered by the clearing-house to the Comptroller of the Currency for destruction.

Fifth—The circulating drafts, authorized to be accepted under the above conditions, may be drawn by any national bank, or by any state or private bank, which will submit to such examinations by the local examiner as may be prescribed by the Comptroller of the Currency. The amount of drafts of any such drawer outstanding at any one time to be limited to a proportion of its quick assets including those held by the accepting bank.

Sixth—The circulating drafts so authorized shall be of uniform design, assets including those heid by the accepting bank.

Sixth—The circulating drafts so authorized shall be of uniform design, and may be in denominations of $1, $2, $3, $5 and multiples of $5, having engraved upon their face the name of the accepting bank, with blanks to be filled with the names of drawers. Seventh—Such circulating drafts to be prepared by the Comptroller of the Currency and issued to each clearing-house association upon its requisition made, from time to time, under regulations to be established by the Comptroller of the Currency.

Eighth—This plan, if adopted, is expected to work out in the following nations to be established by the Comptroller of the Currency.

Eighth—This plan, if adopted, is expected to work out in the following manner: A clearing-house association will from time to time make requisition on the Comptroller of the Currency for a certain amount of such circulating drafts to be accepted by certain-named banks, members of that association. The banks for whose benefit such circulating drafts are called for will satisfy the authorities of the clearing-house association of their compliance respectively with the requirements of the system, whereupon issues will be made to such banks, and each of such banks will cause to be filled in the name of the drawer, and then, execute its acceptance upon the face of the drafts. These drafts may be then sent as incomplete currency, as now sent through the malls, or by express, at a moderate charge, and they will not become effective from circulation until duly signed by the drawers. When signed they will be paid out by the drawing bank, or bank for local use, first, and will gradually find their way back to the accepting banks, by which they will be redeemed and sent to the clearing house in order to release a proportionate amount of the securities there held against such issue.

The object of this suggestion is to enable banks at remote points throughout the country to meet the local demand for currency when it arises, and only as it does arise, and at the same time to limit and control such issues through the operation of the principle of self-protection, which will assert itself in the management of the accepting banks.

Regarding the deposit of the silver dollars and silver certificates, Col. Trenholm suggests that the silver now in the treasury be constituted into a reserve fund for the guarantee of outstanding silver dollars, and that the silver certificates be issued in denominations of $1000, $5000 and $10.000, in order that they may be held by national banks in the proportion of 20 per cent. of their lawful money reserves.

JOHN ANDERSEN HELD UP ON MAIN STREET LAST NIGHT.

His Pockets Rifled and His Money Taken by Two Boys Nine and Twelve Years Old.

TOO SMALL TO GET HIS WATCH

OR, AS THEY ADMIT, THEY WOULD HAVE TAKEN THAT.

The Victim Was Drunk and the Children Promised to Take Him Home—All Four of the Youth-ful Highwaymen Arrested,

Johnnie Burns, aged 12, living at No Johnnie Burns, aged 12, living at No. 111 East Thirty-seventh street; Francis Carter, colored, aged 9, living at No. 839 Maple avenue; Willie Moore, aged 13, living at No. 715 Wall street, and Eddie McDonald, aged 13, living at No. 1101 West Eighteenth street, are in a cell at the City Prison, charged with highway robbery.

They met and robbed John Andersen a laboring man, on Main street near the Burbank Theater, and after di-viding the money, Burns and Cooper went to the show, first having a feast of sandwiches and candy, while Moore and McDonald went home.

Andersen was drunk when the boys robbed him, but the crime was daring, in its way, as was ever perpetrated by the James or the Dalton boys. Young Burns, by far the brightest-witted lad of the four, is a genuine street Arab. He makes his own liv-

"It wuz jest dis way, see?" said Burns, as he was being searched at the station: "It wuz sellin' peanuts and popcorn fur a feller on Sixth and Main and his nibs, McDonald dere, he comes to me and seg. seg. he, "hi. I leaves my peanuts and corn wid anoder kid and I skips up to dis mug and I gits his oder arm an' we walks along jollying him. De coon wuz a-goin' troo his pockets one side and I wuz fishin' roun on de odder side, but de coon's side had all de dough. Byemby de coon he sez to me 'I've swiped his pocketbook, take it,' an' he hans it round de drunk's back. I gets it an' its got $2 in it. Den I swipes some change, nickles an' tings, on my side, an' I passes de dough back ter Moore and McDonald.

"Well, dat's al til we's pinched by de tops, an' here we is. Wot dy'ell do, eh? Whittier, I guess yes, de furst guess. bat feller he piped us, so what's de ase of lyin."

"I don't know how I was robbed." said Anderseu. "To tell you the truth, i was very drunk. Had a man came up to me I suppose, full as I was, it would have made me cautious, but when two boys, almost babies, offered to show the to my lodging-house, the santa Rosa Hotel at Fourth and San Pedro streets, I never thought of such t thing as being robbed. No, I don't know when or how they took my money, nor can I swear to the amount hey got. I had probably three of four lollars in change in my pockets. Some if the things taken off the lads in prison I recognize as belonging to me. They must have taken them from my pockets. I certainly did not give them my pocket book, my pocket knife, handerchief and the rest, and hesides the

"Will I prosecute them? I suppose will have to do it. Why, I am big mough to take those four little thieves ander my arms and walk away with hem, but for all that, they not only bobbed me, but took everything they lould reach."

Andersen went home under promise

Ardersen went home under promise to be in court today. Clerk Henselev, who booked the boys, knew Burns, and said to him: "You've been here before, my boy."

"I know dat," replied Burns, and, with a grin added, "I guess it's Whit fis time, sure."

The man who with

"I know dat," replied Burns, and, with a grin added, "I guess it's Whit fils time, sure."

The man who witnessed the work of the little highwaymen and caused their arrest was Special Officer Henlerson of the Burbank Theater. The tase against all four boys is clear, complete and positive without their confessions, which were voluntarily made. A parallel crime is unknown in the annals of the police on this coust, and is a sad commentary upon the care exercised by parents and the State over children.

The oldest of the robbers is but 13 years of age, his companion the same ige, while the two highwaymen, the two boys, or bables, who committed the actual robbery and rifled Andersen's pockets, are only 9 and 12 years of age, respectively, so small that they tould not reach high enough to get Andersen's watch.

None of the boys seemed frightened or repentant when "locked in their tells. Not one of them shed a trar, and in less than half an hour after they had been locked up, every one of the four was sleeping as soundly in his prison cell as he could have done in his trundle bed at home.

The father of the Moore boy called at the station late in the might, but only made inquiries as to the crime. "I have tried to raise my boy right," he said, "but this is enough to break than's heart. I don't know what I shall do, what I can do."

The four youthful highwaymen will probably be arraigned today and a lime for their examination fixed. Antersen does not care for the loss of its money, but the police will insist that he prosecute.

The general's death was doubtless hastened by the sad and recent events in connection with his wayward daughter, Bettina Girard. The latter, a complete wreck, was, a day or two ago, transferred to a private sanitarium from Bellevue Hospital. Owing to the pleading of his wife, who had become reconciled to her daughter. Gen. Ordway finally consented to the return of the prodigal and a reunion of the family in Washington was arranged.

Gen. Ordway's death is attributed by the attending physician to jaundice and pleurisy, which developed from a cold contracted in Parls.

ORDWAY'S CAREER.

ORDWAY'S CAREER.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Brevet Brigadler-General Albert Ordway, who was born in 1843, served with credit and gallantry throughout the civil war, the greatest portion of the time with his regiment, the Twenty-fourth Massachuseits Infantry. An act of personal gallantry at Newbern, N. C., was followed by his appointment as adjutant of regiment. He remained in North Carolina until June, 1863; later served in the army of the Potomac; then in Florida and through the campaign of 1864-65 in the army of the James. After the occupation of Richmond he was appointed provost marshal of Virginia, where, through a portion of the troublesome reconstruction times, he directed the delicate duties of his position with much skill and tact. For gallantry at various times and because of his ability he has been successively promoted, when at 22 years of age he was made brevet brigadier-general, being the youngest officer in the service to receive that grade. His regiment and himself were retained in the service until February, 1866, and were the volunteer troops mustered out in the State. After being numbered out Gen. Ordway went into business at Richmond, and about ten years later removed to Washington, where, as commanding officer of the National Guard for a number of years, he brought that organization up to a high standard. Methodist Episcopal Church Con-gress to Discuss the Ecclesiasti-cal Needs of the Times—Many Bright Minds in Attendance.

gress which began a six-days' session at Christ Church this morning. In coliception, purpose and treatment it is unique in ecclesiastical annals and marks an epoch in religious history.

The call for the congress, which was signed by Bishops Vincent, Nindo and Fitzgerald and many prominent Methodist educators, says: "The congress does not propose to invite or favor destructive criticism of existing institutions, but simply to bring out from persons representing different phases of intellectual activity a frank expression as to whether the church can meet any more fully than it does the demands of our times, and if so, wherein its activities may be modified or directed to advantage. The congress will not concern itself with questions of church policy, but with issues bearing upon the relation of the church to the thought and life of the people as affected by current scientific and literary teachings. The congress will aim to secure an adequate presentation of the desife of the current scientific and literary teachings and also suggestions as to the best service to be rendered by the church in interpreting those tendencies for the spiritual and intellectual advantage of its followers."

The list of speakers who will attend the congress includes the names of many of the brightest men in the denomination and the topics announced for discussion are such as will doubtless prove attractive to all thinkers without regard to their denominational affiliations.

Crushing Competition of America Nations Must be Counteracted. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

VIENNA, Nov. 21.—[By Atlanticable.] Count Goluchowski, the Aus tro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, in his annual address yesterda; fairs, in his annual address yesterday before the Austrian and Hungarian delegations, when making an appeal to all Europe to take advantage of the present era of peace, and to join closely for the vigorous defense or conditions common to European countries, as against the "crushing competition of transatlantic nations," said: "A turning point has been reached in European ing point has been reached in European developments, which calls for the unremitting attention of governments The great problems of material welfar which become more pressing every year are no longer a matter for the future, but require to be taken in hand instantly. Europe are not to be gravely compromised.

"We must fight shoulder to shoulder against a common danger and arm ourselves for the struggles with the means at our disposal. Just as the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were absorbed by religious wars; just as the eighteenth century was marked by the triumph of liberal ideas, and just as the nineteenth century has been notable for the appearance of great questions of nationality, so will the twentieth century be for Europe a period marked by a struggle for existence in the politic-commercial sphere. European nations must close ranks in order to successfully defend their existence. "May this be realized everywhere and may the epoch of peaceful development we now confidently anticipate, be employed in collecting our strength and devoting ourselves chiefly to this end."

WIDESPREAD INTEREST. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT RIEPORT.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says:
"Count Goluchowski's statement with reference to the struggles with America has excited the most widespread interest here. It is believed that before he made public so remarkable an enunciation of policy, he has the consent of the other powers, with the exception of England, and spoke as the mouthplece of those governments."

The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Chronicle Says:
"Count Goluchowski's appeal to Europe to unite against transoceanic countries is regarded rather as a Platonic desire than a concrete programme. Thus far no practical attempt in that direction is intended, at least not by Austria."

Disastrous Collision of Electric Care in Baltimore.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BALTIMORE, Nov. 21.—Because Theodore R. M. Orrick, a motorman in the employ of the Baltimore and Northern Railroad, disobeyed orders, the officers of the road say, there was a frightful head-end collision this morning on the line, in which Merrick was almost instantly killed and Wil-

The two conductors and the four passengers, who were on both cars, were all more or less injured, although the injuries of neither of them are supposed to be dangerous.

Those most seriously injured are: Conductor Thomas Ewing, aged 68 years, and Charles Snowden, colored, aged 29. Ewing is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, and is badly bruised on the head, face and body. Snowden's cheek is lacerated by broken glass and he received several severe cuts on the head. His chin was cut to the bone, and there is a long, deep gash in his neck. Both of these men are at the hospital, and both will recover unless complications develop.

Bieyellng and Insurance.

Dr. R. E. Tomlin, a life-insurance examiner of long experience, has called attention to a new class of risks which is giving the life-insurance companies some anxiety, viz., riders of the wheel. What he has to say on this subject is valuable as a note of warning against the abuse of a healthful exercise. Bi-cycling in moderation is a splendid ex-ercise, beneficial to people of every vocation; but excessive idulgence in the use of the wheel is conducive to heart and lung diseases, and shortens the span of life. Young men and men of middle age immediately after bicycle the span of life. Young men and men of middle age immediately after bicycle exercise, show a great increase in the pulse, an irregularity in its rhythym, a tremulous condition of the whole body, and murmur of the heart, which continues for a considerable period. A chronic dilation may be the result of too much wheeling. There is also a danger, in case of tuberculosis in a family, that pathisis may be developed by over-exercise on the wheel. This may come from the inhalation of dust, and the rapidly forced breathing making too great a strain upon the iung tissues. Dr. Tomlin believes that any person over 50 years old runs a great risk in using a wheel, especially if he rides with young people, who would make the pace. This opinion, however, cannot be accepted unreservedly, as the issue must be greatly influenced by the extent to which an athletic habit of life has previously been maintained. It is found that a large proportion of wheel women are injured by the excessive strains put upon their muscles by rapid and long-continued riding, and insurance companies are proposing to be exceedingly stin their inquiries of both male and male applicants, as to their use of wheel. In a recent discussion on the male applicants, as to their use of the wheel. In a recent discussion on this subject, it was resolved that, "many men, and women also, are going to their long homes from injudicious wheeling," and there is no doubt that many riders who before taking up the wheel had never practised systematic exercise, have not the patience to build up gradually the power of endurance which active indulgence in their new recreation necessitates.

Medical men say that there are few things more mischievous in their permanent effects on the human system than the artificial human system than the artificial dry air which is found in many apartments in the cold season, and singers, especially, have much to fear from this cause. One of the principal reasons why people get into the habit of living in an atmosphere which is so hot as to sap their strength and their power of withstanding climatic influences is that they take no measures to supply a proper proportion of moisture to the air, and if such measures were taken a lower degree of temperature taken a lower degree of temperature taken a lower degree of tempera could be endured without discom This fact has been recognized by builders of hot-air furnaces, but could be endured without discomfort. This fact has been recognized by the builders of hot-air furnaces, but the vapor pan in the furnace is not generally effective. The moisture must be restored to the heated air after it leaves the furnace. Among the many devices to effect this, few have been successful. The latest arrangement is devised by Dr. Henry J. Barnes. He calls it a humidifier. He has not patented it because he wishes the full benefit to be given to the public of its influence in increasing the comfort and improving the healthiness of a household, and in lessening their coal bills. It is a box of about two feet square, which stands over a register on the floor. It is provided with a tank of water, in which are suspended strips of cotton felt. The box is made the only exit for the hot air, which, passing the wet strips, becomes charged with moisture. If a deposit of dew or frost on the window panes indicates that the air of the room is becoming too moist, the strips are lifted from the tank by a single piece of automatic mechanism, and dried by the hot air until their moistening action is again required. Dr. Barnes says that with his humidifier, during sixteen days of last February, he obtained a mean of 63 per cent. relative humidity in a mean temperature of 63.3 degrees through the evaporation of from two quarts to two gallons of water per diem. During this period the outside mean temperature was 32 deg., with a relative humidity of 73½ per cent. This temperature was perfectly comfortable, whereas without the addition of the moisture from 70 to 71 deg. was required. Most people live indoors, Dr. Barnes contends in air containing a less per cent. of moisture than that of desert regions, and with positive observation in the proper live indoors in the contends in air containing a less per cent. Of moisture than that of desert regions, and with positive observation in the contends in the conten in air containing a less per cent. of moisture than that of desert regions, moisture than that of desert regions, and with positive physical injury. He adds that under such conditions, women can never expect to maintain a good, natural complexion.

An East Indian has invented what he calls a cooking box. It is made of wood and lined with reflecting mirrors.
At the bottom of the box there is a small copper boiler, covered with glass to retain the heat of the rays concentrated by mirrors upon the boiler. In this receptacle any kind of food may be quickly cooked. The dish is a stew or a boil if the steam is retained, and a bake if the steam is discharged. It is claimed that in this device the heat may be augmented indefinitely by increasing the diameter of the box. Another sun machine has been used in Algeria for distilling water. It consists of a simple arrangement of boiler and concave mirror, the steam generated being condensed in a coiled tube within a water jacket.

This is what . a prominent physician says: "I have given my own children the benefit of very careful study in the matter of absolute cleanliness in bottle feeding. I have studied the so-called easilycleaned nursing bottles, and I long ago came to the conclusion that a little Pearline would render ordinary nursing bottles the safest utensils of them all. I firmly believe that children properly fed and cleanly fed will avoid the majority of the difficulties which they encounter during the first two years of life. I believe that if every feeding bottle was washed with Pearline, many innocent lives would be saved." Surely, this is a matter to interest every mother. Nothing so thoroughly cleanses as Pearline.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] To the thinkfing person nothing goes so far to establish the failfubility—one might say guilibility—of human nature, as does the fact that intellectually-endowed people frequently cherish theories that are logically impossible.

What are called the learned professions, are not more exempt from epidemics of intellectual folly than are the less educated; an illustration of which is seen in the present popular disease-germ fad. This bacteriological katzenjammerie is a product of German speculation, which is being used in Europe and America to an extent that is almost as fabulous as the theory on which this fad is based. For several years so much has been said by the press about disease germs and the efforts of boards of health to protect people against the 1700 varieties of microscopic monsters, which swarm in every sumbeam, float in every breath of air; swim in shoals in our drinking water, harbor in droves in the carpets and curtains of our dwellings, and even in all the clothes we wearly yea, lurk in the lips we daily kiss, so that to touch the mouth of wife, sweetheart or child means an exchange of microbes, and these microbes swarming in countless billions—so much has there been of this, that the fact that people have not gone crazy by hundreds over the dangers of living, must excite our special wonder. That such effects have been produced, is shown in the fact that people have not gone crazy by hundreds over the dangers of living, must excite our special wonder. That such effects have been produced, is shown in the fact that people have not gone crazy by hundreds over the dangers of living, must excite our special wonder. or child means an exchange of microbes, and these microbes swarming in countless billions—so much has there been of this, that the fact that people have not gone crazy by hundreds over the dangers of living, must excite our special wonder. That such effects have been produced, is shown in the fact, as stated upon medical authority, that the published theories of Pasteur had such an effect upon the French imagination that the victims to Pasteurism numbered two to one as compared with the Germans across the Rhine, who, not reading French, were not so well posted.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, who is an eminent physician, in a speech on the floor of the United States Senate, delivered a few months ago, satirized this bacterial delusion as follows: "If we were to believe one-half of it, we should not dare to breathe, eat or drink, but would want to get into glass cases and be sealed up."

The most earnest consideration of physicians and enlightened thinkers and writers for the press should be given to this subject, else the principles of American liberty are liable to be curtailed by depriving the innocent unfortunate consumptives the right of asylum by the mandates of medico-political organizations known as boards of health.

I have heard that it has been gravely proposed to or by the county authorities of a neighboring county, to prevent tuberculous cases coming here from other States obtaining a residence, but I cannot vouch for this. The authorities here have enacted an ordinance making expectoration in public places a punishable offense.

Now, spitting is a disreputable, filthy practice; a nuisance (depending on how it is practiced;) it is also a natural, necessary and unavoidable need, unless, as a doctor in Germany maintains, people should swallow their sputum. Unnatural and harmful!

I think our authorities are right in regulating this practice (to prohibit it is impossible.) Expectoration should not be permitted on the floors of cars, public places or sidewalks, but should not be permitted on the fl tagious or infectious, and therefore not dangerous, as most people suppose. The wonderful sunlight, equable temperature and ozonized air of Southern California are antiseptics which render any amount of consumptive microbes innocuous if living is managed right. Let us watch and jealously guard the right and privileges of health-seekers to this sanitarium of America, for the day is near when where 100 pilgrims now come 1000 will come, and let no one fear that the health of any already health-ful people will be endangered thereby.

A large number of High School boys went out to root for their team, but their rooting was of no avail, for the Pasadena team proved too strong, and defeated, the city lads by the comfortable score of 8 to 0.

Pasadena is a good football town, and pretty maidens and men and boys of all ages fairly over-ran the field, and cheered every gain made by their team; the rivairy between the schools being very intense. Some of the decisions made by the officials of the game were so close that several times small riots seemed imminent.

both teams making most of their gain by short-line bucks. For Pasadena, Senter, Turner and Bettis did the best playing, while Bright, Albright, Haven and Billings were the star players on the Los Angeles team. The Los Angeles full back, Billings, was laid up just at the end of the first half by a dislocated knee, which prevented his playing, in the second half, and seriously crippled the team. Pasadena made one touchdown in each half, falling to kick goal both times. The teams lined up as follows:

One game won and one lost was the record of the Trilbys yesterday at Flesta Park. In the first game between the Trilby and Los Angeles teams, the Los Angeles won by their superior work both in the field and at the bat. Tripp, who pitched for the Los Angeles team, was at his best, and only allowed the Trilbys six scattering hits, and was well supported in the field. Bullock was touched up for eleven hits, including one home-run by Held, when two men were on bases. His support was rather ragged at critical times. Wilson put up a good game at second, accepting everything that came his way. Brown played a fine game at short for the Trilbys and made two sensational stops. Carroll played an exceptions and the store of the sensational stops. Carroll played an exception of the trilbys and made two sensational stops. Carroll played an exception.

way. Brown played a line game at short for the Trilbys and made two sensational stops. Carroll played an excellent game behind the bat, as did aso Barris. The game was exciting and close until the ninth inning, when the Los Angeles team made five runs on four clean hits, assisted by errors on the part of the Trilbys, thus winning by the score of 9 to 3.

In the second game the Trilbys won from the Echoes by the score of 7 to 5. The Trilbys started off with a rush and made three runs, and again in the third inning made three more, making them 6 to 0. The Echoes made four runs in the fifth, and things looked as though they were going to make a grand-stand finish. But they were not equal to the emergency, and scored equal to the emergency, and score only one more in the seventh The fea tures of the game was the fielding o The score:

dently avoiding the slightest chance of sending their patrons away dissatisfied. From the records of the contestants, however, there will probably be no reason for the club to take advantage of the "fake" clause, as both men have the reputation of being clean and carnest boxers. Parker has been in training at Santa Monica for the past ten days, while Elmer has been working in San Francisco ever since negotiations began for the contest.

Young Green and Ben Thompson are also matched for a ten-round go on the same evening. Two amateur contests, a boxing and wrestling match are billed for that date. The four-round contest between W. Graham and Robert Porter will be for a trophy given by the club, and the club championship. The wrestling match will be between S. J. Brown and Robert Selander. The Athletic Club has nyt given a "boxing night" for a long time, but the bill of fare presented certainly makes up for the long wait.

Homing Pigeon Race.

There will be a close race in the free-for-all homing-pigeon race from Mentone on Thanksgiving day if the pigeons come in as close as they did last Saturday in the trial fly. There were no less than eight lofts that had returns at about 1 p.m. in the day. As one of the birds carried a message stating that they would be liberated at 10:45 a.m., they must have covered the distance of sixty-four miles in about two hours.

There are fourteen lofts entered for the free-for-all event, and as all the birds are doing well, it is hard to guess the winner, especially as it will depend on the condition of the winged racers and of the weather.

The birds are to be started at 7 a.m., rain or shine. If raining, then the long-distance stock may be the winners: if a strong, contrary wind, then the strong and fleet birds, while if hazy and hot, the high-flying stock may make things hum. But then there are some that will arrive several minutes ahead and will not enter the loft at once, so the race promises to be very interesting. Two diplomas and sweep-stakes are the prizes, besides honor. The time limit will be three hours.

Coursing.

Over five hundred people were at Agricultural Park yesterday afternoon to witness the preliminary try-outs of several of the dogs entered for the Thanksgiving-day coursing meet. Considering that everything was new, the affair was a success. Of course the rules were suspended, and there was a marked disposition on the part of the crowd to get into the inner field, but on Thanksgiving day all this will be changed, and the races will be run strictly according to rule, only the judge, flagman and field stewards, who will be mounted, being allowed on the field.

Most of the members of the club were in attendance. Almost every member of the club has a dog most of the results have a dog most of the property of the club has a dog most of the results.

The morning's play will be devoted to gentlemen's doubles, and immediately following the championship singles in the afternoon the finals in the gentlemen's doubles will be played.

BICYCLE RACING.

Why the Public Has Lost Interest

Another so-called bicycle "tourna-gladly have shared his in She believes him innocent. ment" is advertised for Thanksgiving day, and as usual the names of noted racers who have no idea of taking part ment" is advertised for Thanksgiving day, and as usual the names of noted racers who have no idea of taking part are announced among the entries. Such a tournament was held here last Admission day, and it was a complete fizzzle. Popular interest in bley-cle racing is on the wane and cannot be revived by badly managed tournaments. It is doubtful if it can be revived at all in Los Angeles. Everybody knows that professional riders are hired to advertise wheels, 'tires, etc., and are paid salaries by manufacturers to travel about the country. Racing by such men is business, not sport, and the public cares but little for the performances of hired racers. But when people do go to a tournament to see bicycle races and exhibitions of fast riding, they want to see the men whose names have been advertised, and not to hear the managers explain why those men failed to appear. Bicycle dealers get up these tournaments for advertising purposes, not for sport, and they "reserve the right to cut out such events as do not fill." That reservation gives them an excuse for announcing events that they know they will not fill, and they make such announcements recklessly, including names of racers with whom they have made no arrangement whatever. For example, W. E. Becker of Minneapotis was included in the list of alleged entries for the Thanksgiving-day races. Becker personally informs The Times that he will not be here and that no arrangement was made with him by the managers Becker also states that others who are advertised are not even in the United States, and that Zeigler never had any idea of extering the races. As a matter of fact. Zeigler is trying to get back into the LA.W. The managers blame the riders for breaking the engagements, but the public neither knows nor cares who is to blame. The result of such work is deception of the public by somebody, and consequent indifference to professional racing. Should the "tournament" business die out entirely it would be no calamity, and interest in the legitimate use of the wheel wo

A new chainless wheel has appeared in New York, and one manufacturer in Gotham has put out a sample of the promised inclosed-chain model. The chainless is a new spur-gear contriv-

DREYFUS CANNOT LIVE LONG. He is an Old Man Now-Chances for Release Apparently Hopeless. [Cable in New York World:] There [Cable in New York World:] There was dining recently at a military club in London an officer of the German general staff, whose department gave him a knowledge of the secret service in France. There were English officers present at this dinner, one of whom asked him if he considered Dreyfus guilty. The German answered deliberately:

cers present at this dinner, one of whom asked him if he considered Dreyfus guilty. The German answered deliberately:

"If Dreyfus had sent any information to the German government, I should have heard of it. On my word of honor as an officer and a gentleman, I tell you that no such information ever came to us."

It is easy for the French government to get the testimony of this German officer, as well as that of an English major who heard it.

If this evidence is admitted it will appear that Dreyfus is the victim of a conspiracy to ruin him because of his antecedents. I have no right to disclose the names of the two parties, but they are both known to me as trustworthy men.

Since Napoleon died on St. Helena there has been no prisoner so carefully guarded as ex-Capt. Dreyfus is now in the Ile du Diable, off the coast of French Guiana, He is the most famous political prisoner on earth today. The Iles de Salut, or Islands of Safety, as they are fantastically called, where he is confined, are a horror in cilimate.

as they are fantastically called, where he is confined, are a horror in climate. Prisoners sent thither are confined in fron cages on the decks of iron cages on the decks of the transports on the way. When they arrive they die off like sheep.

Now, it appears that Dreyfus is confined in a cage, even after reaching the island. Napoleon, on St. Helena, walked free, though the island was parrolled by ships of war. He lived the life of a country gentleman. He had horses, servants, attendants, secretaries and a physician. He had all the comforts of home, but the ships lay in the offing and the island was patrolled; that was all.

In Dreyfus's case the island is guarded, of course, but even his place of 'habitation is never free from surveillance. He lives perpetually in the sight of old comrades in arms now turned into jailers. He is watched night and day, sleeping or waking, by a guard of veterans of the French army, with loaded carbines, and he never leaves his narrow quarters.

At first Dreyfus was kept in a hurear the middle of the island, and three others were built near by for the housing of his watchers. Now a great iron cage has been built entirely about his hut as an additional precaution, for there were rumors of an expected attempt to rescue him. There were people who had an interest in getting him out. It cost $12,000 to build this cage in that out-of-the-way corner of the earth. But having it does not mean any relaxation of the severity of his prison discipline. Day and night one of the soldiers paces about it, with shoulered rifle. At frequent intervals he is relieved.

dered rifle. At frequent intervals he is relieved.

Sometimes Dreyfus is allowed to walk about the island. At such times he can be plainly seen from any part of it as well as from the Ile Royale and Ile St. Joseph. He is permitted to wear only white clothing, so that he may be more conspicuous.

At night he is always in his cage.

There are six guards and a corporal. Each of the six patrols four hours out of the twenty-four, in two watches of two hours each. He has plenty of time to rest. He has good pay and his term is short. If he were to stay long on the pestilential island he would die. One man of this guard did go insane one man of this guard and go insane after a year of it. The man on watch is never permitted to sit down. He must literally stand his watch. Dreyfus's term will be short, too. He is failing in health. If he were to at-tempt to escape he would be shot in-stantly.Many would like to have that happen.

stantly. Many would like to have that happen.

They wait for the climate to kill the man. He was placed on the island in 1895. The island where he is incarcerated is so unhealthy that the goats which were once kept there have been removed to another. He looks already like an old man, with bent form, white hair and deep-lined face. No guard ever speaks with him, but he gets books clothing and delicacies from his wife, but his mental trouble is doing quite as much to kill him as physical disease. An effort was made some time ago to have Dreyfus's wife share his island prison. She is devoted to him. The Governor of Guiana refused him this consolation. The devoted woman would gladly have shared his living death. living death.

Not Used to His Estate.
[Houston Post:] The best joke of the honeymoon season is told by a southern hotel-keeper. The male half of the new partnership registered like this: "August Buerger and wife." He remained one day, and when he stepped up to ask the clerk the amount of habill the clerk said it would be $4.

"Four dollars!" Mr. Buerger said, "Why, your rates are rather high, aren't they?"
"No. I guess not; that's only $2 a day."
"But I have been here only one day."
"I know it, but it's $4." the clerk replied. "How do you figure that?" the newly-wedded man asked, as he leaned over the counter with a frown of perplexity on his otherwise blissful features.

"Well, there's yourself, one day. $2; and there's your wife, on day, $2; two and two make four."

Then the fellow slammed his fist down on the register, while a crimson flush of blood suffused his cheeks. "Well, I'll swear," he cried; "if I didn't forget all about her, I'll eat my hat! Here take this V, keep the change and say nothing about it, please."

But the clerk didn't keep the change, so he didn't think there was any reason why he shouldn't tell the story.

PHILADELPHIA'S GAS WORKS.

The recent action of the City Council of Philadelphia in leasing the city gas works to a private corporation fo a term of thirty years has called forth a great deal of discussion in the newspapers as to the relative merits and demerits, advantages and disadvantages, of municipal ownership as compared to private ownership of public franchises. While the action of the Philadelphia Council excited intense opposition in some quarters, the press of that city is quite generally favorable from public to private control. The Times of that city reflects the sentiments of most of its contemporaries.

The frank statements made to the public by Director Thompson, showing that the city was at a disadvantage in that the city was at a disadvantage in managing the gas works of nearly $1,000,000 a year, was doubtless given with the full knowledge and approval of the Mayor. They have demonstrated that, between a rattle-trap gas plant, the demands of politicians, and the ordinance of councils and the law of the State giving much larger wages to city employés than are paid in private industries, the only hope of getting good gas, an improved plant and a large net revenue to the city was to invoke private enterprise to manage the business on business principles. The approval of the ordinance by the Mayor was, therefore, entirely logical.

by the Mayor was, logical.

"With the ordinance authorizing the lease of the gas works approved by the Mayor, and thus clothed with every ceremony to make it a law of the city, the proceedings for an in the city, the proceedings for an in the Mayor, and thus clothed with every ceremony to make it a law of the city, the proceedings for an injunction to restrain the city authorites from executing the lease will now come properly before the courts to determine whether the city authorities possess the power under the law to authorize such a lease, and whether that authority, if it exists, was lawfully exercised. The question is now in the hands of the courts, where justice is judicially administered, and where the laws will be clearly and justly defined."

It should be stated, further, that the United Gas Improvement Company, which is the lessee of the gas works, is bound by the terms of the lease to expend $5,000,000 upon the improvement of the property within the next three to charge not more than $1 per thousand feet, and to reduce this price by degrees to 75 cents. A certain proportion of the company's annual revenue is also to be paid into the city treasury. It is claimed that the city will save by the transaction not less than $1,000,000 per year.

The outcome of this experiment will be a matter of general interest outside of Philadelphia. It appears that the per year on its gas plant. But this loss seems to have been due rather to gen-eral mismanagement and unwise legislation than to any other cause. Theoretically, if a private corporation can take the Philadelphia gas plant, expend $5,000,000 upon it in improvements, pay a part of its revenues to the city sell gas of good quality at a reasonable price, and still realize a profit, the city ought to be able to derive a handsome revenue, instead of suffering a heavy loss, from the same business. But in harmony. In all matters of a public character, the politician and the dem-agogue have to be taken into account. In the case of the Philadelphia gas works, the heavy annual loss to the city appears to be chargeable principally to political demagogy and job-bery. Laws were put through giving to men employed by the city higher wages than the market rates and re cessarily large force of employes, at high wages, was the result. Political "pulls" were relied upon to secure employment. with the inevitable consequence that incompetent and inefficient men were given positions which they could not fill properly. In short, the municipal gas plant was transform into a political machine. No other result than that of dismal failure could reasonably have been anticipated under such circumstances. Private control of the plant for a term of years is perhaps preferable to its further comby politicians, as a choice of evils.

All this makes clear the pressing need for reform in the method of municipal government. Until our cities are gov-erned on business principles, by busi-ness men, they will never be well governed. Partyism must give way to common-sense and civio patriotism, if our cities are to be rescued from the clutch of the demagogue and the bummer. #### ALGER, THE QUIBBLER,

THE LAW-DODGING SECRETARY WRITES HIS EXCUSES TO ESTEE.

He Shows Himself a Master of Circumlocution—The Question of Advertising for Bids Passed on to the Treasury Comptroller.

[Special Dispatch to the Examiner.] WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Secretary Alger of the War Department has de-termined to set himself in what he calls a proper attitude before his friends on the Pacific Coast. He said today that he had, in response to re-peated demands from his friends in California, mailed a letter to M. Estee in San Francisco, which, he said, was a complete and fair statement of his position on the San Pedro Harbor matter. He declined absolutely to matter. He declined absolutely to give out any portion of this letter, although the Examiner correspondent was present when it was sealed and mailed. He said Mr. Estee might, if he saw fit, give the letter to the people of California through the press.
Secretary Alger, while professing to be anxious to advertise for bids for the construction of the break-water, at

He said today that he was about, to authorize the advertisement vesterday, when the fact was brought to his attention that no funds were available for this purpose.

when the fact was brought to his attention that no funds were available for this purpose.

The act creating the San Pedro-Santa Monica Commission appropriated $50,000 for the expenses of that commission. The commission's work was completed some time ago, and its accounts are closed. Although this act authorized the expenditure of $2,900,000 for work on the harbor, yet not a dollar was actually appropriated. Then arose the Secretary's dilemma; whether to advertise or not to advertise. Finally, as a means to defeat the will of the commission and to bring the final action close to the meeting of Congress, he referred the whole matter to the Comptroller of the Treasury. That officical is requested, it is understood, to say whether he will pass the advertising account in the face of the insurmountable difficulty, in the Secretary's eyes, or no appropriation

Mr. Alger would not say when this opinion would be rendered. In the ordinary course of business it should be handed him early next week. The probability is that it will not be forthcoming for three weeks, instead of three days.

It is by this and other puerile acts that Alger has delayed the creation of the harbor at San Pedro.

Arother evidence of Alger's desire for delay was exhibited today, when he was asked whether he would accept the proposition if a sufficient number of newspapers of California would agree to print the advertisement for bids for the construction of the breakwater without expense to the govern-

The question was put to Sec-retary Alger in consequence of a re-port at the War Department of an offer by a Los Angeles paper to print the advertisement and wait for Con-gress to make an appropriation for the payment thereof. The Secretary said that this offer would be declined for the reason that it would bind the gov-ernment to a future payment. The question as to whether he would ac-cept a free advertisement was dodged by the answer that that proposition had not been made, and could not be answered until it reached him.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—There is good reason to believe that the British government will view with favor the formation of a commission to clear up the vexatious questions between the United States and Canada. This at-titude will be important in the con-summation of the commission plan, for the best efforts of the United States and Canada toward a general settleand Canada toward a general settle ment could come to naught unless the imperial government approved the ef-forts and stood ready to give them official execution in the form of a official execution in the form of a treaty.

At first the sharp differences aroused by the recent Bering Sea meeting led to the belief that Great Britain might stand in the way of a commission which would discuss, among other questions, such imperial subjects as the tariff. The British have been to receive of helding the adhave been tenacious of holding the advantages secured by Canada's preferential British tariff, and it was though the Colonial Office at London would not view with favor any move-ment by a commission which would disturb this preferential tariff. It appears, however, that the British au-thorities are sincerely anxious to close ada and the United States through the medium of a commission, or other-wise, and that no idea is entertained that when the commission dealt with the imperial subject of the tariff it would involve any disturbances of the British-Canadian tariff relations. There are said to be many articles, such as coal and fish, which are not exchanged between Great Britain and Canada. On such articles, therefore, any recip-rocal arrangement between the United States and Canada would have no influence on British trace with Can-influence on British trace with Canada.

The home government is said to be fully gonscious of the advantages which Canada may secure in the extensive American market lying alongside her, and there is understood to be every desire to aid Canada in the enjoyment of reciprocal trade with this country. Already the British Ambassador has been authorized from London to begin negotiations for reciprocity treaties between the United States and the British West Indian colonies. This is cited to show the favor which the London authorities exhibit toward securing the best reciprocal advantages for the British colonies. It is said the same view would prevail as to Canadian reciprocity.

In any event, the work of a com-mission would be preliminary only, and it would remain for the British gov-ernment to give it effect by formal

The subjects other than the tariff, such as border immigration, fishing in the great lakes, etc., are not of an imperial character, and concern only the United States and Canada. In these, it is said, Great Britain has no interest whatever except to see them settled on terms satisfactory to Canada. The lake fisheries have been a prolific source of trouble. It is claimed that the fish of the lakes, particularly white fish, are being exterminated by the lax laws of some of the States bordering on the lakes. The destruction of the fish is said to be analogous to the destruction of the seals in the Bering Sea, and one of the subjects which Canada would urge before the commission would be the protection of the fisheries in the lakes.

Prof. D'Arey, Thompson, the British

Since the expert agreement was reached a protocol has been signed by Mr. Hamlin, chairman of the expert meeting, and by the secretaries, Mr. Venning on behalf of Canada and Mr. Clark on behalf of the United States. This protocol sets forth the conditions under which the meeting was held, with the minutes of the proceedings, and to some extent aids in the interpretation of the agreement by showing all the circumstances leading up to it. Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, has been confined to his room for the last two weeks with a return of his old attack of rheumatism. It prevented his attendance at the Bering Sea meetings, and in this and all other affairs of the embassy Mr. Adams, first secretary, has been in charge. In the mean time, such questions as reciprocity with the British West Indies, the general arbitration treaty, etc., have been in abeyance, but they are likely to come up for discussion with the authorities here as soon as Sir Julian is fully recovered.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES. WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 .- War with Spain is not even a remote possibility now, judging from present indications. There was a time not long ago when the United States was very near to a friction with the Spanish government, but the war cloud which for some time hovered about us is receding as rapidly as it appeared. Wall street has been alive with rumors for the past three months concerning a probable rupture of the friendly feeling between the two countries, but these rumors were founded more or less on fiction, not fact. Gones of Nevada will vote with the Republicans on everything but party questions.

There seems to be no doubt that Mr. Corbett is entitled to the seat. He was appointed in accordance with the Constitution, which empowers the Governor to fill a vacancy in the Senate caused by death or the failure of the Legislature to elect. Mr. Corbett would have been seated long before this were it not for the fact that the Tariff Bill was before the Senate when his case originally came up. The Republican leaders, not desiring to stir up the opposition while the tariff was pending, decided that the Corbett case should go over until the regular session in December. The probabilities are that Mr. Corbett will be seated before the Christmas holidays.

Senators and Representatives are fast Senators and Representatives are fast returning to town and by the end of next week nearly a quorum of both houses will be in Washington. None of the California delegation have arrived yet, however, although Representative Maguire and Senator Perkins are expected after Thanksgiving. The return of some of the California members would have a tendency to stir up Secretary Alger on the San Pedro Harbor matter. He appears to be taking his own sweet time, and does not seem to care a rap whether the harbor is ever built.

The anti-scalping bill, which was passed by the House at last session. Will be brought up for consideration in the Senate early in December. A count of noses develops the fact that the bill will meet with rough sledding in the Senate, although it is confidently expected by the railroad lobbyists that it will pass. Senator Cullom, as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, will lead the fight in behalf of this measure.

The President is making a few appointments these days. There are several consular offices yet to be filled, but he seems to be in no hurry. vades all life was the theme of the sermon preached by Rev. Burt Estes Howard yesterday at the First Presbyterian Church. Mr. Howard chose his text from Luke vi, 38, "For with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

It is the Teacher, not the judge, who speaks. These words contain no solemn sentence pronounced with arbitrary authority upon men, but they are the calm announcement of a law of life, as inexorable as any other law of nature. Jesus did not impose this law. He called attention to it. It had always existed. Ever since the race swarmed on the earth it had bound them. The Master did not deliver men over to its workings. He simply made them conscious of it, that they might make use of it. Wholly alive to nature and to man, Jesus saw how there was established between the man and his environment an action and a reaction, each acting on the other and being acted on by the other. Further, He saw that there was a fixed principle in the process, a rigid reciprocity. "Every gift has its return, every act has its consequence, every call has its answer in this great, live, alert world, where man stands central." This is the law of reciprocity, the inexorable reaction that follows action everywhere. "The world," saye one, "is far more

xi. 29-30: "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

The Savior stood in the presence of the rulers of the Jewish nation and understood well the burdens that wery weighing down so heavily upon them. Rome was oppressing them. He knew also that they were under a spiritual burden. The Jewish law was a law of ordinances. The Jews had pligrimages to make, festivals to keep, costly temple offerings to make and many other like burdens upon their slender means. The Savior understood their condition as He understands ours today. All the world was then groaning under its burdens of idolatry, ignorance, oppression and poverty. The Jewish nation had become intemperate at that time. Jesus knew, and told them that they needed strength from above. He saw them in the pitfalls of their mistakes and stretched forth His hand to help them. When men turn away from that wonderful invitation to get rest they are only turning toward deepermisery. Jesus was going to the people, going to the masses, and offering them the richest treasures of His storehouse of love. How hard men try to better themselves. How signally they fail! They organize all kinds of fraternal clubs, but none find in such organizations the help and strength they need, that comes from God alone. They cannot lift themselves up; so it is everywhere, yet men put off till the last the sure remedy for their troubles and try everything else. The secret of Christian peace is the hope and joy from above. The world is getting more and more restless as the days go by. What it wants is peace, but it gropes in vain, unless it goes to the foot of the cross. God is moving upon the hearts of the people. We are all under heavy burdens when we are far from God. None of these loads rests heavier than that of a troubled conscience. The religion of Jesus is the only one that changes sorrow to joy, that makes the tomb echo with the voice of song.

Religion of Brotherhood.

The lecture at Blavatsky Hall last evening was delivered by Abbott Clark whose subject was "The Religion of Brotherhood." The first step toward the gaining of spiritual knowledge is the religion of brotherhood. It recognizes all religions, strips them of their outer garments, and shows the root of each to be identical with every other. In all the idea that the universe is spiritual in its essence; that man is a spirit, and immortal, and that he may rise to perfection is fundamental. A study of all religions shows that we have no patent on truth or revelation God has no favorites, but has given truths to all. Wherever a man becomes spiritual he will perceive spiritual truth as the eye perceives light. We are ascending the mountain of evolution from different sides, and see different aspects of truth. We should forget our separateness, for helping and sharing in what brotherhood means.

The San Francisco Chronicle exposes the operations of the debris of what was styled the "Gospel Army," an outfit of expelled Salvationists that went to pieces in San Francisco after an attempt to trade upon the reputation of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers. According to the San Francisco paper, one R. McKinstry and a few accomplices are "doing the best they can" by collecting money under false pretenses from Los Angeles to Shasta.

One of the collectors, Sharp by name, averages $5 to $25 a day, and is now in the vicinity of Marysville working his way, to the Oregon line. These collectors are given their hotel bills, railroad fares and a certain percentage on the collections, the rest of the money being divided among the members of the defunct army. The army has given up its street work and its life-boat work. Some of its members claim that they still divide the spoils.

R. McKinstry was once a member of the Salvation Army, and is said to have been expelled from that organization because of his drunkenness. At that time McKinstry was a carpenter, but he has not worked for two years. He was fond of the religious life and started an army of his own. As he was the originator he collected all the titles of the Booths and wore them. He adopted a uniform as near like the Salvation Army's as possible, and became the forefront of the new organization by right of discovery. Several unsavory rows occurred and at last there was a split and one of the majors or colonels formed an organization of his own, calling it the American Gospel Army, on the plan of the Volunteers.

McKinstry, who disclaims that he is a major, or general or anything but, the Section 928 of the Penal Code may account for School Director Webb's anxiety to relegate the blackmail scan-dal to the grand jury. That section says, in effect, that the grand jury may not comment upon any person or official who has not been indicted. Acceptance of a bribe by a school di-rector is not an indictable offense, having been reduced by the Legislature from a felony to a misdemeanor to oblige some thief of a school director who had reason to fear that he would

The Board of Education's "investigation" of the blackmail scandal seems destined to be worse than a farce. It is the evident purpose of the commit-tee to cover up the facts, and prevent further exposure of the operations of the ring, but that scheme will fail, because there are other means of elicting the truth. The few honest men on the board might accomplish something if the president had as much backbone as a jelly-fish, but he always falls down and is afraid to vote at a crisis. Failure to suspend Axtell and toleration of Adams as a voting member during the "investigation" give the keynote to the whole impu-

The Imperative Mandate Would Catch Him.

[San Francisco Examiner:] If the imperative mandate, for which our Populist friends pine, were now in force, it is more than probable, in view of Secretary Alger's masterly inactivity in relation to San Pedro Harbor, that that gentleman would very soon be a statesman out of a job. Alger needs to be liberally educated to a point where he can appreciate that he is not greater than the law.

nis own, calling it the American Gospel Army, on the plan of the Volunteers.

McKinstry, who disclaims that he is a major, or general or anything but, the head of the army by right of election, was seen at his home, No. 438 Jessie street. At first he denied his identity, but when he found he was recognized, gracefully acknowledged his name. He was engaged at the time in handing a pail of beer to his daughter. He and Mrs. McKinstry conduct a baby farm on the premises and the house was full of children.

The head of the Gospel Army was very much embarrassed by the questions asked him. He admitted that Capt. Sharp was collecting for him, and then denied that Sharp had any official connection with the army, and said that he had thought of having Sharp arrested, but had refrained for fear such an act would hurt the Salvation Army and "all the churches." It was through this forbearance on the major's part that the $50 check was received last week. McKinstry gaid that he had not worked for two years, "but no other preachers work either." he added. McKinstry left for Portland yesterday.

Appoplexy While in Church.

The services at the First Baptist Church were interrupted yesterday morning in a way that excited the congregation. Richard Green, a deacon of the church and a retired capitalist, living at No. 811 Bonnie Brae street, was sitting in his pew listening to the sermon, when he was seen to suddenly drop forward and slide to the fisor. A score of friends rushed to the assistance of Mr. Green, but he was found to be unconscious. Kregelo & Bresee's ambulance was summoned, and the sufferer taken to his home, where Dr. M. L. Moore, his physician, who had been notified, soon arrived and took his case in hand. For several hours the life of the patient was despaired of, but toward evening Mr. Green rallied and at a late hour last night was pronounced by Dr. Moore to be out of danger.

Questions of Law.

remarkable trial. As to these latter inquiries, it would be very presumptuous for any one who has not followed closely all of the evidence to attempt to give an opinion. But as to what constitutes the correct delicity to the constitute of the correct delicity to the cor itutes the corpus delicti, the Luetgert stitutes the corpus deflect, the Lacetse case will probable for many years constitute the leading authority, supplanting the Webster-Parkman case, which ing the Webster-Parkman case, now stands practically alone.

By corpus delicti is meant simply the existence of criminal fact, and when the course of the co used in connection with a homicide it means that the deceased must have died from the effect of a wound unlawfully inflicted, and that the defendant was implicated in the killing. This is the definition given by Wharton, the leading writer on American criminal law, and while it has been criticised in some cases, it is sufficiently clear and correct for the purposes of these and correct for the purposes of these inquiries.

Not only must a human body be found, as a general rule, but that body must be clearly identified. It is proved separately from the defendant's connection with the killing, and the courts have usually, although not always, required absolute proof, and not allowed ofreumstantial evidence for the purpose of establishing the fact of a killing.

This rule requiring positive evidence was adopted over two hundred years ago. In 1660 three persons were executed for the murder of a man, and two years later the supposed victim appeared, having been sold into slavery into Turkey, and subsequently succuted for the murder of a man, and two years later the supposed victim appeared, having been sold into slavery into Turkey, and subsequently succeeded in escaping. Sir Matthew Hale tells of a case heard before him, in which a man by the name of Arnold was hung for the killing of one Blackley, an enemy of Arnold. In this case some charred bones of a human being were found in a bake oven in Arnold's bakery. A year after Arnold was executed Blackley appeared.

Sir Edward Coke condemned a man to death upon the charge of murdering his niece. He was seen to drive off with the niece in a covered cab and return home without her, telling conflicting stories as to her whereabouts. Some months later the body of a woman was found, and the remains were identified by relatives as those of the niece. The uncle was executed, and the niece returned two years later.

A man named Ruloff in New York lived very unhappilly with his wife and had been heard to threaten her life. One night screams were heard in the house by the neighbors, and the next morning the wife and her baby were missing. The room the couple occupied gave evidences that a great struggle had taken place there, and a shawl and ring belonging to the wom were afterward found in the husband's possession, he having removed to another city, where he lived under an assumed name. When arrested Ruloff said that his wife and child had died six weeks before at the home of her friends in Illinois. This story proved to be false, and on a scrap of paper in his satchel with his wife, whom he was supposed to have murdered, came home and interfered in time to varyeat his execution.

ten the words "Oh, that dreadful hour." Ruloff was tried and convicted. His wife, whom he was supposed to have murdered, came home and interfered in time to prevent his execution. Harriet Ferguson, a white chambermaid, employed in a hotel in Alexandria, Va., gave birth to a mulattochild. Three days later the mother of the girl delivered to a man named Smith, a negro employed in the same hotel, this baby, saying that he would have to take care of it. He replied that he would take it to his mother, and left with it. Two weeks afterward the body of a mulatto child of the age this infant would have been was found in the Potomac River near Alexandria. Smith was arrested and was asked "Why did you do such a thing?" to which he replied "I don't know. I hardly knew what I was doing." Smith was convicted, the case was reversed by the Supreme Court, and it the supposed to have taken place, and a bullet hole through the skull showed plainly the cause of death. was convicted, and pending appeal to the Supreme Court, Staunton returned uninjured, having had a miraculous escape from drowning.

One of the most sensational cases of this kind that ever occurred was in Australia. A man named Broome was noted as a miser. A nephew visited him from England who was known to have considerable money in his pos-session. He disappeared suddenly and some bones, supposed to be those of a human being, were found buried in Broome's back yard. The miser was tried, convicted and executed. Subsequently the nephew appeared and suc-cessfully claimed the estate of the man who was supposed to have murdered him, he being the only heir. He had spent two years in the bush and was mm, he being the only heir. He had spent two years in the bush and was naturally very much astonished when he found the turn affairs had taken during his absence.

In the Hopkins case, which is the leading one in England, a girl was accused of murdering her illegitimate child. The body of an infant was found, but not positively identified. The court held that she could not be compelled to show the whereabouts of her child and that as the body had not been identified the case was taken from the jury and she was discharged.

There have been a number of cases where murders have been committed on the high seas in which the production of the body has not been deemed necessary, it being impossible, as the bodies were thrown into the sea. There have also been cases where identification has been allowed in rather singular ways. Most prominent among these is the Webster case. Dr. Parkman and Dr. Webster were professors in the same college. Dr. Webster disappeared is the Webster case. Dr. Parkman and Dr. Webster were professors in the same college. Dr. Webster disappeared and remains of human teeth were found in the embers in his room, the rest of the body having been completely destroyed. These teeth were of a peculiar kind and a dentist testified positively that he had made those teeth for Dr. Webster. Upon this testimony Parkman was convicted. Peculiarity of teeth also played a very conspicuous part in the identification of Lindsey and Dr. Cronin.

There is one case on record where two

The Luetgert case has brought a number of inquiries concerning what is meant by the corpus delicti, and whether or not it was proven in that remarkable trial. As to these latter inquiries, it would be very presumpture of death was not exposure, in ground that it was not shown that the cause of death was not exposure, in which case Preslar could not be convicted, even though he had driven his wife from home.

The Lueigert case is the only one of which any record can be found where the co-pus delict has ever been established by the more presence of human bones without any peculiarities by which they could be identified as having belonged to a particular individual. The identification of the rings comes under the same principle as that of the hairpins in the Jolly case.

A. T.-Presents a case that does not A. T.—Presents a case that does not often happen under the law of wills. His grandfather died bequeathing his property to his children and grandchildren per stirpes. The estate was settled and the executor discharged of his trust by the court. After the distribution of the estate was completed, another grandchild was born. This child is entitled to the same share of the estate that it would have had if living at the time of the grandfather's death, and all of the devisees will have to pay it whe proportion they have received that belongs to it under the will.

Mrs. L. A. R.—The cheapest and most expeditious way for you to settle with your husband's creditors is to reconvey the property to them. A married woman is entitled to her separate estate, but in order to secure the benefits of the law size must keep the estate separate from that of her husband. If, as in your case, a married woman allows her husband to mix her separate estate with his own and he afterward becomes insolvent, he cannot convey property to her to the value of the separate estate as against his creditors. All women owning separate property should keep it separate, which is easily done by having a trustee appointed and having all transactions with relation to such property made through the trustees.

T. P. A.—A boarding-house keeper is not entitled to an inf-keeper's lien upon the baggage or furniture of his guests. A boarding-house keeper is not held to the strict accountability charged against the inn-keeper and has not the corresponding privilege of a lien upon baggage of his guests in the absence of a statute expressly conferring it. An inn-keeper is an absolute insurer of the property of his guests, while a boarding-house keeper is not. An inkeeper's lien is in some respects the strongest given by law. It embraces even property belonging to a third person if in the possession of his guest and is paramount to a mortgage, bill of sale, or other lien, even though junior to them in point of time.

T. K.—The facts are not sufficiently outlined in your communication to fully advise you. It would seem that your case came within the rule of suggestio falsi and suppressio veri. If a man is in a position where he is to be presumed to have special knowledge of any matter and, for the purpose of deceiving another, misrepresents the facts even by suggestion, he is liable for damages resulting by reason of such suggestion being acted upon. If he is in a position where good conscience would cause him to speak and suppress the truth when he should have in equity spoken, he is liable for the damage caused by his silence. Each case of this kind depends upon its own particular facts and should be submitted to a competent lawyer.

that he would take it to his mother, and left with it. Two weeks afterward the body of a mulatto child of the age this infant would have been was found in the Potomac River near Alexandria. Smith was arrested and was asked "Why did you do such a thing?" to which he replied "I don't know. I hardly knew what I was doing. Smith was convicted, the case was reversed by the Supreme Court, and it was subsequently learned that the child was living and was being cared for by a white woman to whom Smith's mother had given it.

In a Texas case Staunton and Thornton were partners. Staunton disappeared, and Thornton returned home saying that his partner had been drowned, and bringing with him a sorrel horse and a watch belonging to Staunton. A few months later a badly-decomposed body was found near the creek where the drowning was supposed to have taken place, and a bullet hole through the skull showed.

P. E.—Sends an old deed rather peculiar in form, and wants to know whether it conveyed the land in question. It reads: "Received of John C. Lamb, $100 in full for my house and lot containing one-half acre, numbered lot 21, original plat of Nashville. Tenn.. July 2, 1868. Signed E. A. Earnest." The deed is a good one, although in case the grantor was married it does not pass the wife's dower. A conveyance of real estate need not be in exact form. It is good if it contains the names of the parties, the amount of consideration and a description of the land, with sufficient words to show an intention to pass title. The omission of the seal tion and a description of the land, with sufficient words to show an intention to pass title. The omission of the seal or the lack of any covenant of seizin or of warranty do not invalidate the deed.

K.B.C.—A law student asks for the rule in Shelley's case. This is a question asked upon every examination for admission to the har. While a knowledge of if is valuable it is of very little present practical importance. The rule is that where a freehold is limited to one for life and by the same instrument the inheritance is limited either mediately or immediately to heirs of his body, the first taker takes the whole estate either in fee simple or fee tail, and the words "heirs" or "heirs of the body" are words of limitation and not of purchase.

M. R. B.—Wants to know if the killing of a chicken-thief is justifiable, stating that he has placed a spring-gun-in such a position that it will be discharged when the door is opened. If it is a chicken-thief who gets killed, the correspondent is safe, but if it is a neighbor or a visitor whose intention was not to steal chickens, his will be guilty of manslaughter. The Supreme Court of Michigan had occasion to pass on exactly this question about a year ago, and the owner of the spring-gun is now serving out a sentence in the penitentiary.

B. R. P.—Thinks he is entitled to a considerable tract of land in the heart of the city of Chicago. It was conveyed to his grandfather when comparatively worthless, and the deed was but recently discovered. While it is true that in cases of fraudulent concealment the doctrine of laches which in a court of equity, corresponds with the statute of limitations in a court of law, does not begin zo run until after the discovery of the fraud, or the time when the fraud by reasonable diligence might have been discovered, the courts will only invoke the aid of the claimant.

In every city in the United States there are tracts of land now very valuable which could have been recovered had suits been brought in time. There have been instances where courts have granted relief where sixty or seventy years have elapsed, but these are very rare, and, as a rule, claims such as the correspondent has are not susceptible of proof of fraud sufficiently clear to justify courts in disturbing those who have held possession, even under fraudulent titles through long periods of years.

L. P. G.—You are perfectly safe, so far as notes given to a broker to cover losses in a stock-gambling transaction are concerned. Such notes cannot be enforced, belonging to that class of debts that are held to be void, as being against public policy.

B. C. K.—A surety, when he pays a judgment against his principal, himself and a co-surety, should have the judgment assigned to a trustee. If he merely marks it satisfied on the record, he destroys his right of subrogation, and releases his co-surety from all responsibility. If he has the judgment assigned to a trustee, he has all the rights of the judgment creditor.

N.O.L.—A person contracting with reference to a particular trade is presumed to know the customs and usages of that trade where such customs and usages are general or universal in the locality in which the contract is made. In such cases the contracts will be construed by the courts to have been made with reference to the customs and usages of the trade to which they refer and words employed will be given the meaning they have under such custom, even though this may be entirely different to the usual meaning of such language.

A.L.T.—Even in the absence of a statute prohibiting boycotts, they are illegal. In most States those who participate in beycotts can be held responsible under the laws against conspiracy, and where the statutes are silent as to this offense the merchant or others injured can recover damages against those actively engaged in the boycott. No man has the right to injure another in character, reputation or business, and if he does so, must suffer the consequences.

R.T.S.—The act of August 13, 1894, which requires that the bond given to the United States by any contractor on a government work shall contain the additional obligation that such contractor shall promptly make payments to all persons supplying him with labor and materials does not establish any privity between the United States and such persons so as to authorize the officers of the government to satisfy such claims from the moneys due the contractor on the failure of the latter to do so. Under the same statute giving to persons supplying labor and materials to a contractor on a government work the right to maintain a suit in the name of the United States for their own benefit against the contractor and the sureties on his bonds the payment of the amount due the contractor from the United States to the sureties is not authorized upon their claim that they will be held liable for certain amounts due for labor and materials which the contractor has failed to pay.

The statutes providing for repayment contemplated only the return of money actually paid, and where land is paid for in part by cash and in part by a military bounty-land warrant the Secretary of the Interior has no authority to draw his warrant upon the treasury for a sum larger thon the cash paymer, made by the entryman but may return the bounty-land warrant.

In the case decided the owners of the goods imported claimed that the invoice and the entry were made under duress on the ground that the penalties exacted had been so severe, and the remission of same so uncertain that they, rather than run, any further risks in the premises, had erroneously invoiced the goods at the valuation established by the board of appraisers. It was held that the decision of a board of general appraisers under its statutory powers cannot be regarded as an unlawful duress. The owners had the goods in their cossession with power to ship them to any quarter of the globe, and the fact that they invoiced them at the value fixed by the board of appraisers might have been the result of a prudent restraint, but not of unlawful duress, and the protest was overruled.

J. K. L.—It is not necessary that in a widow's application for a pension the allegation should be made that the soldier was "honorably" discharged. In a recent case an application was returned to a widow that could not be accepted to confer any rights upon her, for the reason that it did not contain the allegation that the soldier was honorably discharged. A proper blank for a new application was inclosed. Instead of filing a new application the claiment returned the old application with an affidavit stating in substance that she had no personal knowledge of the circumstances of her husband's discharge, but that she had been informed, and believed, that he was discharged honorably. On appeal the attorney contended that there was no provision of law making an allegation of honorable discharge necessary in a widow's application, and that, inasmuch as the fact as to whether the soldier was honorably discharged or not lay without the personal knowledge of the claimant, but was peculiarly within the knowledge of the government, such an allegation ought not to be required of her. It was held that the bureau was under no obligation to consider a claim unless the claimant alleged facts which, if proved, would entitle her to the pension sought, but that where a widow's declaration is complete in all respects except that it does not allege that her husband's discharge from the service was honorable,
't would be reasonable to waive the informality and accept the declaration as valid.

The Mrs. McKinley Coiffure is a Fad.

[Washington Star:] All the femininity of any consequence in Washington are wearing their hair cropped, curled and held at either side of the parting by tiny combs. That is because Mrs. McKinley, as the first lady of the land, wears her hair that way, and, of course, should be copied. The curls have come to be known as "administration curls." At the various summer resorts these dames from the capital were gazed at in horror at first, because the fashion is certainly unbecoming to almost every one, but when the "why and wherefor" was learned maids and matrons rushed to their rooms, combed out their Merode curls and cut them off. Now the McKinley curls have made their way from Maine to the Rio Grande and from Key West to Klondike, and will doubtless hold their own until the ar-The Mrs. McKinley Colffure is a Fad.

rival of some new social or theatrical star.

Why women should change the fashion of wearing their hair is incomprehensible, because to every face some one style is absolutely suited and all other modes are more or less unbecoming. But let a professional beauty or a French music-hall dancer adopt some curious and wonderful method of arranging her hair and women the world over will make this method "the fashion." It is many years since Mrs.

Langtry started the fashion of chopping off all the hair on the top of the head, curling the short ends into litping off all the hair on the top of the head, curling the short ends into little rings and waves and producing what was known as a "bang." The much-abused tresses have had time to grow long, and now women are looking out at the world from between straight bands of hair drawn down over the ears, because Cleo de Merode, Parisian music-hall dancer and favorite of a king, has set the fashion for so doing.

A SIMPLE, HARMLESS REMEDY.

Yet It Cures the Worst Cases of Dyspepsia and Indisgestion.

Dr. Jennison, who has made a life study of stomach troubles, says: All forms of indigestion really amount to the same thing; that is, failure to completely digest the food eaten; no matter whether the trouble is acid dyspepsia or sour stomach, belching of wind, nervous dyspepsia or loss of flesh and appetite; a person will not have any of them if the stomach can be induced by any natural, the stomach can be induced by any natural, harmless way to thosoughly digest what is eaten, and this can be done by a simple remedy which I have tested in hundreds of aggravated cases with complete success. The remedy is a combination of fruit and vegetable essences, pure aseptic pepsin and golden seal, put up in the form of pleasant-tasting tablets, and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets. One or two of these tablets should be taken after meals and allowed to dissolve in the mouth, and, mingling with the food in the stomach, digests it completely before it has time to ferment, decay and sour.

On actual experiment one grain of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets will digest three thousand grains of meat, eggs and similar wholesome It is safe to say if this wholesome remedy foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nat a secret patent medicine, but a 50-cent package will do more real good for a weak stomach than $50 worth of patent medicines, and a person has the satisfaction of knowing just what he is butting into his stomach, which he does not know when widely-advertised patent medicines are used.

NERAL SERVICES OVER THE RE-

Sacred Concert in Universalist Church-Talk on Cuba by Rev. William Jones-Brevities.

PASADENA, Nov. 21.—[Regular Correspondence.] Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. J. W. Hugus were held this afternoon in All Saints' Church on North Euclid avenue, and every seat in the edifice was occupied. Rarely does such a representative Pasadena congregation assemble as was present to pay respect to the memory of deceased, who was loved and respected by all. The regulation Episcopal burial service was conducted by Rev. Haskett Smith. He paid a glowing tribute to the life of Mrs. Hugus, and was followed by Dean A. G. L. Trew, who had known Mrs. Hugus many years, and who spoke of her kindly, loving and benevolent nature, of her family ties and uncomplaining nature, though so long an invalid. The choir boys sang "Nearer My God to. Thee" and "Lead Kindly Light." The pall bearers were Walter Wotkyns, J. R. Greer, Dr. J. M. Radebaugh, Frank C. Bolt, E. R. Hull and James Craig. The front of the chancel rail was literally a bank of flowers. Interment was made in Mountain View Cemetery.

At the sacred concert in the Universalist Church this afternoon the twenty-minute talk by the pastor, Rev. William Jones. was on Cuba. Dr. Jones said, in referring to Cuba. 'Here is a little nation fallen among thieves—we should not pass her by; we should act the part of the Good Samaritan and go to her assistance.' He deprecated the reported policy of President McKinley and hoped it was not true that he asked the people to accept autonomy on the ground that the United States wanted peace, and that to interfere as good samaritans would affect the business of the country. The musical portion of the afternoon's exercises was as follows:

It extends back from the ocean a distance of three or four hundred feet. When South Santa Monica was laid out, several years ago, some of the principal property-owners thought they would find, a better sale for lots if they had a small park near the beach. Accordingly they set aside the land in question, for that purpose and placed it in the hands of five trustees. It has since been increased to avoid the undesirable condition, it will be turned over to the city.

A number of Japanese, who live in an adjoining house, assert that when the alarm sounded a number of hoodlums, who were on the street, rushed into their rooms on the pretense they were firemen, and one Japanese waiter, named Satosi, says a purse containing $10 in coin was taken from his room. No report of the robbery was made to the police, and the Jap's story is doubted, as he had been on a drunk the night before and, if he did not spend the money, probably lost it then.

An Australian Klondike.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] The stories that come from West Australia show that that colony has a Klondike of its own. Near the Kalgoorlie gold fields alluvial ground has been found which yields enormously. One man, in a single morning, cleaned up two pounds of nuggets, while two others, in two days, obtained sixty-five ounces. The bedrock is from twenty-five to a hundred feet from the surface, but when reached it appears to be lined with nuggets. The new diggings are not in an inviting country, but this Australian desert is a great improvement over the frozen Klondike.

Crime—True Story of a Tired Buil, Successful Experiments in the Growing of Sugar Beets. News of the Week.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M..) Nov. 19.—[Regular Correspondence.] Mexican silurianism threatens the big canal enterprise near here seriously. These Mexican ranchers, under the present dozen or twenty canals, have got an idea into their heads and until it is disclosed there is no room for another. The proposition is a consolidation of ditches from the Rio Grande that were taken out in the year 1, granting instead free water, as at present, to the ranchers thereunder from the new capal. The total flow of these ditches is 180 cubic feet per second, and the total area cultivated 3200 acres. Both would be increased ten-fold by the new canal, follow-increased ten-fold by the new canal, follow-

THE BULL'S INNINGS.

An Old Buil was being driven along the road one day when it grew very weary, and, lying down, said: "I am fatigued and will go no farther." But the Drover, whose name was Bob Bell of Sliver City, said: "Not on your life," and otherwise insulted the Buil with strong language and thumped him sore with clubs and rocks. Then the Bull said "Enough," and proceeded to lambaste the everlasting stuffing out of the softer. He stepped on him, and punctured him with dishorns, sent him on an aerial voyage iar into the blue and otherwise knocked the day-lights out of the Drover. Then the Cowboys were aglee thereat, but not the Drover, who was still sore. Morals—(1) Don't get tired; (2) don't protest; (3) don't die.

Warm Condemnatory Words of an Irish Orntor.

Is it he office of thy loudest advocate to tear that mantle aside and expose to the rudest gaze the errors of the living and the dead?—the errors of a mind exhausted with the toils of thought; the error of that frenzied hour when reason reels and lunacy becomes ascendant?

"Oh. might not the act of that unhappy hour be consigned to the recesses of oblivion; might not the accusing angel, as he flew up to heaven's high chancery with the account, blush as he gave it in, and the recording angel drop a tear upon it and blot it out forever!

Shall the commissioned advocate of reform, who assumes all humanity for his client, be not content with exposing the errors of the living, but be seen hunting amid the tombs of the dead, like another 'Old Mortality.' with steel chisel and incessant mallet, deepening those records of human frailty and mysterious judgment, which the winds and rains of heaven were mercifully provided to obliterate?"

He Thinks He Would Have Been Lynched in the South.

Samuel B. Crawford, the negro who was arrested in San Bernardino county on suspicion of being Mrs. Holly's assailant, and was shown to be innocent, writes a letter to The Times, in which he says: "The Sheriff of San Bernardino county was very dogmatic about having the right man before heard from Mrs. Holly at all, but the Sheriff of Los Angeles was equally sure that the wrong man had been caught be as he had seen me. Blessed is the may that believes ere he sees! My photograph was shown to Mrs. Holly and she could not say I was the man, although the policeman hoped she would, so he might get the reward. I am 24 years eld, and never have committed the horrible crime of which I was suspected. When I become a brute or lose my mind, I will let people know it. I have good morals, if I am away from home, out of work and called a 'hobo.' It is fortunate that Mrs. Holly is honest about identification. Had this happened in the South, I would have been lynched. May God help some officer to catch the right man, and some court to give him his deserts. I and two others have been incarcerated for his horrible act."

An immense crowd gathered in the neighboring doorways and police whistles were blown from a dozen points. Police Sergeant Mortoh was the first officer on the scene, and he promptly disarmed Avila, who was both drunk and under the influence of morphine. When searched at the Police Station the man had enough poison on his person to kill a regiment of men. In addition to three boxes of morphine, he had a hypodermic syringe and a bottle of strychnine pills, and he told the officers that he "took it all whenever he felt like it, and that was pretty often." Avila has a police record, and is considered a dangerous man. He was booked on a misdemeanor charge, which will probably be raised to a graver one today.

FELL IN A SPASM.

Mrs. Bandini Gives the Traction Car Company a Scare.

Early last night Mrs. Bandini, who lives at the corner of Hayes and Albion streets, fell in a spasm while riding home on a car on the Traction line. The car was run to the junction of Hoover and Union streets, where the lady was removed to Brown's drug store and the police ambulance sent for. It was over an hour before the unfortunate woman regained consciousness, and the patrol then conveyed her to her home, where she lies in a critical condition. The cause of the spasm is not known.

All sorts of reports as to the woman having been run down by a car, etc., were affoat, but the facts are as stated. Mrs. Bandini's husband is an employé in the Southern Pacific shops.

ant performed discovery has been made by Scott & Loftus. The new oil-bearing territory lies about three-quarters of a mile southeast of the County Hospital, and is believed to County Hospital, and is believed to have no connection with the Los Angeles field proper. The oil is as black as ink, and of about 17 deg. gravity. It is believed to be a very superior fuel oil. The extent of territory and richness of the strata are as yet merely conjectural, as the depth of the oil sand hence these gravitating.

richness of the strata are as yet merely conjectural, as the depth of the oil sand has not been ascertained. But one well has been opened in the locality, and this one has been drilled little more than 600 feet in depth. Before the present level was reached considerable water was encountered, but the exploiters were successful in casing it off, and now have about a tenbarrel well. The drill will be sent down through the oil sand, and it is expected a far larger product will reward the operators when that depth has been attained.

There was considerable activity in the oil market during the week just closed. The Santa Fé Railway Company is said to have been the principal purchaser. Twenty thousand barrels were sold in job lots. Of this amount 12,000 barrels were unloaded by the Oil Producers' Trustees. The market was opened early in the week through a sale of 8000 varrels by the Highland Oil Company. Other sales are reported to be on the tapis, and the Standard Oil Company is credited with a desire to secure 50,000 barrels of oil at 60 cents per barrel, with no sellers at that figure. This sweeping offer for large quantities is reported merely to show the importance of the petroleum industry of Southern California, and that a strong market may be maintained for immense quantities at prices ranging as high as 60 cents per barrel.

W. D. Campbell says he has not leased his former residence site on Ocean View avenue for oil exploitation, and has not determined to personally engage in its development, but declares that were he to do so such action would not be inconsistent with the efforts of his former neighbors to develop oil in the block bounded on three sides by Ocean View avenue and Arnold and Bonnie Brae streets.
Mr. Robinson, senior member of the firm of Robinson & Summers owners of producing oil property at the northeast corner of Pearl and College streets, says he expects to become one of the heaviest oil producers in the Los Angeles field during the coming year. He asserts that these tracts lie within the eastward trend of the oil strata of the eastern extension.

Has made a firm and permanent place in daily life. As a beverage, it is gradually crowding out all others. It is full of the three active principles that play such a part in the composition of healthy food--ALBU-MEN, STARCH and FAT.

A scientific process extracts these qualities from the cocoa bean and furnishes it to consumers in the form of GROUND CHOCOLATE, convenient for instant use and easily prepared for drinking.

ECAYED TEETH . . . .

Comparatively few people realize the dangers resulting from allowing decayed teeth to remain in the mouth. Under the microscope disease breeding microbes or living germs are discovered in untold numbers wherever there is decayed tissue, whether in bone or flesh. When these infest the mouth they are mixed with all food swallowed. This soon results in diseases of the stomach and bowels, and through them so weakens the body as to easily render it liable to be wasted by secondary diseases, for neuralgia and other forms of nervous diseases often result from decayed teeth.

This is to certify that I have had 32 teeth extracted by Dr. Schiffman without pain or bad effects.

MRS. C. W. SHAFER, 226 W. Thirty-third street. Dr. Schiffman has filled teeth and done other work for me, and I must say that he is the easiest dentist that ever worked for me. The doctor is exceedingly gentle in his handling of and working on the teeth, and I consider his work of the very best. All his work on my teeth was PERFECTLY PAINLESS, I highly recommend him to my friends.

JOHN H. SCHUMACHER, No. 107 N. Spring street, I have had some excellent work done by Dr. Schiffman, both extracting and plate work, without pain, and to my entire satisfaction.

MRS. L. C. WHITF, 712 S. Grand ave.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman, extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain.

I had a badly ulcerated wisdom tooth extracted, without hurting by Dr. Schiffman.

C. H. LEHMAN. Ticket Broker, 213 South Spring street, I have just had five teeth filled and two pulled without any pain. Had I known of this painiess method of extracting and filling I would have come long ago.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he killed and extracted and filled the root of one of my teeth and put in a porcelain crown which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain.

JUDSON R. RUSH, Fulton Block, 207 New High street. The extracted that I have had be extracted so quickly and with the part of the port of the pain and fulled the root of one of my teeth and put in a porcelain crown which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain.

JUDSON R. RUSH, Fulton Block, 207 New High street. October 7, 1897.

I never realized that so many teeth could be extracted so quickly and with out pain. I had 29 teeth extracted at one sitting, and I fully indorse and recommend Dr. Schiffman to all needing this kind of work.

DR. WONG HIM, 831 South Hope st.

Los Angeles, Cal.,

Dear Sir:—In justice to you and for the benefit of others, I wish to make a statement of my case. I was afflicted with ulceration of the rectum and hemorrhage of the bowels. I was treated by two good doctors until I lost 32 pounds of flesh and became so weak from lose of blood that I was unable to attend to business. I then commenced doctoring with Dr. Wong Him. Bleeding stopped and I commenced to improve with the first dose of medicine, and at the end of four months I had regained my lost flesh and health, and am today well and sound. In Dr. Wong Him's honesty, integrity and ability to cure any disease that he says he can cure I have unbounded confidence and faith, and would recommend him to all needing a doctor. Yours truly,

President Citizens' Bank, Scuth Riverside, Cal., Sept. 9, 1897.
